THE WORLD'S PAIR.

There ought to be National pride enough a every American to wish that the World's Fair abould be a great success. New York, which might be expected to feel a little sore over the shabby way in which she was treated in the matter of the Fair, is certainly desirous that Chicago acquit itself dmirably with the undertaking.

It is with regret, therefore, that rumors have to be woven to order on an extra small of trouble and dissension among the sole. directors of the Fair are heard. Director-General Davis feels that he has not been properly treated by the local directory. Then there has been a difference of opinion between the National and local Committees on Grounds and Buildings. This is all wrong. The World's Fair is nothing if not National. Localipride and vanity should not assert itself detrimentally to the undertaking. This is where the danger lies. To Chicago, will be largely due whatever success the Fair may have and the city derives glory enough from the presence of the great show in its midst. A spirit of Western glorification should not insist too much on what appeals to merely local pride.

The time for preparation will be found only too short even if perfect harmony, organized effort and the use of every moment of time contribute to success. But jurring sentiments and force lost on side issues will surely result disastrously. The country has a right to object to this.

Nothing is truer or more just than that every man should have a fair trial and that ce should be calm and deliberate in dealing with him. But when a wretch like McGonisal, fairly tried and righteously lemned, meets with legal favors and indulgence it seems a doubtful mercy. The has a right that this wretched man scoive his full deserts, and the granting him peculiar priviliges on technical grounds is irritating, to say the least.
